

Figure 3. The connections between modelled settlers and captured individuals represent the modelled proportion of settlers from each depth that disperse across the studied regions. The captured individuals represent the adult fish from which otoliths were sampled.